

PATMONT DISAPPEARS ON WAY TO CHICAGO

HOSPITAL AGAIN MISSING

ESCAPES HIS COMPANIONS

Milwaukee, July 21.—Rev. Louis R. Patmont, temperance worker, has again disappeared, having left the train on the Soo Line, bound for Chicago, some time after two o'clock this morning, according to a telegram received from Rev. Claude F. Witty, dated Lakeville, Illinois, by the Rev.

C. L. Milton, Milwaukee.

According to Mr. Milton, Patmont was aboard a sleeper on a train bound for Chicago. On the same sleeper were four Detroit men, including the Rev. Claude F. Witby.

Mr. Milton was on the Milwaukee sleeper, and left the train at Rugby Junction, coming to Milwaukee.

According to advices received here, telegrams have been sent by Mr. Witby to the station on the Soo Line, where the train stopped over a month ago. It is stated that Patmont did not appear some time around two a. m.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 21.—The Rev. Louis B. Peimont, "dick" lecturer, who disappeared from Detroit over a month ago and was located at Rib Lake, Wisconsin, last Saturday, passed through Wisconsin this morning via Rugby Junction, and was due to arrive in Chicago this forenoon en route to Detroit.

On Way to Sanitarium.

Patmont is accompanied by the Rev. Claude F. Witby and A. Y. Malcolm.

At times he appears to be very irrational, and at others seems natural. Patimont told me that the real cause for his disappearance from Detroit was that he was held by two men who threatened to kill him if he did

"As to his wanderings," added Mr. Milton, "Patmont told me he had been in Kansas City, Minnesota, St. Paul Ladysmith, Wisconsin, and a section of the northern country where sand hills abound, presumably Michigan.

"His talk at times was very rambling and he was wild in his expressions. The reward of $1,000 offered for the finding of Mr. Patmont ought not to have gone into effect until the twentieth day of the month. The newspaper man will not be able to add to his resources through the discovery."

CROWDS AT PALACE AS LEADERS ARRIVE

Public Interest in Irish Home Rule Question is Thoroughly Aroused at London.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, July 21.—So deep is the interest taken by the public of all classes in the crisis which has arisen over the Irish home rule question, that great crowds gathered today outside Buckingham palace to witness the arrival of the party leaders who are to participate in the conference inaugurated by King George, with a view to bringing about a peaceable settlement.

The Right Honorable James Lowther, speaker of the house of commons, who was chosen to preside over the conference, was the first to appear. He was followed by the eight men who represent the various parties—liberal, unionist, nationalist and ultraliberals.

King Withholds Approval.

According to the Daily News, which represents the section of the radicals that are in favor of the amendment, the king intends to withhold assent from the home rule bill, unless the amending bill is presented at the same time for the royal assent, the king's refusal to assent has been entitled to take this course, because the introduction of the amending bill has violated the procedure under the parliament act.

King George is criticised strongly in his reign King George is criticised strongly, though respectfully, by some of the very important political newspapers, which expressed the belief today that if his Majesty's refusal to assent to the conference on the home rule question, he overstepped the duty of a limited monarchy and interfered with the

He sent orders to all the constituencies to prepare for an election three weeks after the conference, as the leaders were of the opinion that it was best done at Buckingham palace, the house of commons soon must be dissolved.

ANNOUNCE SCHEDULE FOR INDOOR LEAGUE

Walter Cox Has Completed Series of Games for Four Playgrounds. Close Saturday Evenings.

Plans were made last evening at the regular weekly meeting of the directors of the playgrounds for the holding of a series of indoor baseball games to decide the championship of the city. The schedule as arranged, calls for six games, which gives each playground team the opportunity of playing every other night.

Interest in the coming games is running high among all those who attend the plots. The fair grounds appear from the present outlook to have very strong teams so some close battles are expected. During the past few days the directors have been busy trying out their available material. The age limit for the players is fifteen years. If the present schedule of games is a success a league of boys under twelve will be formed.

The first game which is scheduled is between the nines of the Adams and Webster schools. Both are confident of victory as they have excellent material at both plots. While the Washington and Jefferson grounds have fewer boys in attendance, both will put forth formidable lineups.

After examining the attendance records at the four playgrounds on Saturday evenings, it was decided to close the plots on that evening. The number who attended was very small in comparison with the other evenings, so it was considered unnecessary to keep open.

Following is the baseball schedule:

Wednesday, July 22—Adams vs. Webster, at Webster.

Thursday, July 23—Washington vs. Jefferson, at Jefferson.

Friday, July 24—Adams vs. Jefferson, at Jefferson.

Wednesday, July 29—Webster vs. Washington, at Washington.

Tuesday, Aug. 4—Adams vs. Washington, at Adams.

Thursday, Aug. 6—Webster vs. Jefferson, at Webster.

LET GO TO TAKE PLEDGE: IN AGAIN THIS MORNING.

Jack Higgins again escaped punishment in the municipal court when he was released the second time within two days on the charge of drunkenness. Yesterday morning at seven thirty o'clock Higgins was released by Judge Maxfield on the condition that he sign a pledge to abstain from drinking for one year. Sure, Higgins would sign a pledge.

Yesterday afternoon Policeman Sam Brown found Higgins on River street in a condition as was declared by the police "his head and feet did not agree" and he was jailed. When arrested in court this morning Higgins declared that he had not taken his pledge as yet but was on his way to do so when arrested. Judge Maxfield had Higgins sign the year's pledge in court and the prisoner was released. "Don't come back here or no pledge will you were the instructions to Higgins."

REV. CODD IN SUIT OVER DEATH OF SON

Former Pastor at Afton Now at Winneconne Seeks $10,000 for Shooting of Nine Year Old Boy.

The Rev. Frederick G. Codd who is mentioned in the following Oshkosh news story was former pastor of the Baptist church at Afton and is well known in that part of the country. He left about three years ago to accept the Winneconne charge.

Suit for Son's Death.
Oshkosh, July 21.—Suit for $10,000 has been brought by Rev. Frederick G. Codd of Winneconne against F. J. Smith and Virgil Smith of the same place, the action being based on the shooting of Frederick A. Codd, the son of Rev. Mr. Codd, May 12 of this year. Mr. Codd has been duly appointed administrator of the estate of the deceased, a child of nine years.

The suit, which will be tried in Winnebago circuit court, is an unusual one, and will be followed by the legal profession with as much interest as by the general public, which has been interested in the Codd-Smith matter ever since the tragic death of the clergyman's son the day he went to the Smith store, where the Smith boy, three years older, was playing with an old rifle.

Boy is Not Held.
Following the shooting, Virgil Smith was brought here for examination, and was detained at the sheriff's residence. No formal action was brought against the boy because District Attorney McDonald concluded that he was too young to appreciate his situation, and he was permitted to leave the care of relatives, after the charge of incontinence had been made against him largely as a matter of form.

The cause of action recites that the deceased was well and sound of body and mind being strong mentally and physically, and had prospects of long life and great usefulness to his father and mother; and that because of his death the father and mother have sustained great pecuniary loss as well as having been otherwise injured, the damage amounting to ten thousand dollars.

Woman Suffrage Originated Just Sixty-Six Years Ago in America

Sixty-six years ago today, the world's first Woman Rights Convention was held. The scene was the Methodist church at Seneca Falls, N. Y., and the prime movers were Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott. The little country church was crowded to the doors during the two days of the convention. Some of the country's most notable men were present and cheered when the Declaration of Sentiments was drawn up along the lines of the Declaration of Independence of the American colonies, was promulgated. The document set forth the condition of women at that time. The feminine speakers pointed out that "colleges and schools are closed to women; man monopolizes the remunerative employments; women are not permitted to speak in public; married women cannot hold property, are not entitled to their own earnings, cannot conduct a business in their names, cannot make a contract or will, or bring suits in court; nor are they considered as competent guardians of their own children, and where in the civilized world is woman permitted to have her say in government." The revolt amazed the world, and brought ridicule and sarcasm down upon the pioneers.

Today American women theoretically have sufficient votes to decide who shall be the president of the United States. Ten states have granted full suffrage to their 3,500,000 more women, and are candidates for others. The question will be decided before the next presidential election is held. In several of the states women today are filling important civic and state political offices, and are candidates for others. Woman suffrage has become a world-wide movement. The subject of woman suffrage has been presented before every national legislative body in the world, with the single exception of Turkey, during the past two years. The women of twenty-six nations are banded together in an alliance and are struggling for political recognition in their respective countries. In the field of "remunerative employment," today in the United States there is one woman to every four men engaged in gainful occupations. Five per cent of these women are married, and their vocations range from blacksmiths and roof-shinglers to bank presidents, architects and lawyers.

SELECTS SPOT FOR STATE GAME FARM

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., July 21.—Steps are being taken by State Game Warden John A. Sholtz to establish the state game farm authorized by the last legislature, which set aside $2,000 for it. Mr. Sholtz visited the county last week and selected a beautiful spot, partly covered by timber and partly by mineral and grass lands, in the state forestry reserve section. He will go to Chicago this week to purchase fencing wire to enclose the tract, which embraces about one section in the center of the township, lying in section 17 and in adjoining townships. The establishment of the farm this year will depend on whether the fencing can be purchased and transported for a sum within the appropriation.

"I already have about twenty-two young deer in a temporary enclosure to place on the proposed game farm when it is fenced," said Captain Sholtz today. "Being in the forest reserve of the state, all game placed on this farm will be on state land, having the state's protection, and the overflow will be upon state lands as well. It is well watered by a brook that connects two mineral lakes in that section. It is beautifully located upon a railroad line passing a point of the proposed farm, and the railroad company has agreed to provide a station at that point. It is my intention to procure at least a carload of elk as soon as the weather becomes cold enough to allow them to be captured. A superintendent of the St. Paul road has promised me that the elk will be transported from the west free of charge."

By the statute, the state fish and game warden is authorized to purchase game birds and their eggs for the breeding and propagation of game on the proposed game farm.

Leaves a clean after-taste in the mouth—not the thick, foggy taste that the ordinary chew forces on a man. That's one of the reasons why men are so eager to tell their friends about "Right-Cut."

Made of rich, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

FEDS WIN DECISION: BIG LEAGUES LOSERS

U. S. Justice Vacates Injunction Obtained by Chicago White Sox in Case of Hal Chase.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Buffalo, N. Y., July 21.—Organized baseball suffered legal defeat today when Justice Herbert P. Bissell granted the motion to vacate the injunction obtained by the Chicago American League Baseball Club restraining Hal Chase from playing with the Buffalo Federal League Club.

The lack of mutual obligation in the contract under which Chase was playing with the Chicago team, whereby the club could terminate the contract on ten days' notice while the player was bound under several provisions of the "National agreement," formed a basis of the decision vacating the injunction. That organized baseball is a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law was denied by Justice Bissell on the ground that he cannot agree that "the business of baseball for profit is interstate trade or commerce, and therefore subject to the provisions of the Sherman act." The court held, however, that it was a monopoly of the baseball business in contravention of the common law.

Justice Bissell declared organized baseball as complete a monopoly of the baseball business for profit, as any monopoly can be made. "It is in contravention of the common law," he said. "It is that it invades the right to contract as a property right, and in that it is a combination to restrain and control the exercise of a profession or calling."

The injunction was vacated with $10 costs to the defendants.

TIME FOR ACTION.

It is up to the proper officials of the county to take cognizance of the fact that in the territory immediately adjacent to Janesville there are resorts that run wide open, defying all law and order, and where disgraceful scenes are enacted without apparent fear of any prosecution. On Sunday last at a resort up the river a most disgraceful fight occurred following, it is alleged, a gambling game in which young men in various stages of intoxication took part. At the same time, south of the city, at well known resorts, long an eyecore to the community, equally disgraceful scenes were enacted by equally, if not worse, intoxicated revellers. Both are outside the jurisdiction of the city police officers and within the province of the sheriff's and district attorney's offices. The city officials of Janesville have laid down stringent rules regulating the liquor traffic and the police department are enforcing them. The retail liquor dealers' association have organized to aid in enforcing the observation of the law and, practically speaking, Janesville is a law-abiding community. It is not just, then, that just outside the city limits resorts should be permitted to exist where law is held at naught, fights to be expected and where the question of age or sex is no barrier to obtaining all the liquor desired.

It is up to the proper officials to act. They should not bubble over waiting for someone to make a complaint, someone to furnish evidence of wrong doing, for as sworn officers of the law their duty is plain and they can rest assured that they will find the municipal court ready and willing to co-operate with them in the preservation of order and the enforcement of the laws of the state and decency.

AN EFFUSION.

Here is an effusion. It would not be safe to say who wrote it, but it appeared in an exchange so if that paper is given due credit for it there should be no real complaint. Read it over carefully, then look up for the sign that used to hang in western music halls: "Do not shoot the Prof. He is doing the best he can." It has a caption that starts out like this, and appeared in the Madison Democrat of recent date. "Now is the Good Old Summertime Made Glorious by the Exuberance of Nature." This should be enough, but it follows out with the following introduction: "The Robin Hobb the Wormhole and the Yellowhammer 'Querks.' Now for the article itself."

"This is the good old summertime. Old Mother Earth's apron string is supporting almost its limit of bounteous crops which fill her lap. The woods are matter with foliage, the country roads discharge thick clouds of dust and basket picnics are the rage.

"Green apples almost as large as hens' eggs tempt the bare-footed boy on his way to the 'ol swimming hole. Dusty-taken choke cherries are ripening along the roadside and between the shady rows of the orchard and of the raspberry bushes, which now give out an odor of ripening fruit, the robin darts after worms and insects.

"Tame cherries have long been ripe and domestic grapes have attained the size of small marbles. From the roadside peeps the brown-eyed Susan, while dotting the pastures here and there the thistle, now in flower, rises haughtily. In every farm yard hollyhocks, with profusion of colors, are seen.

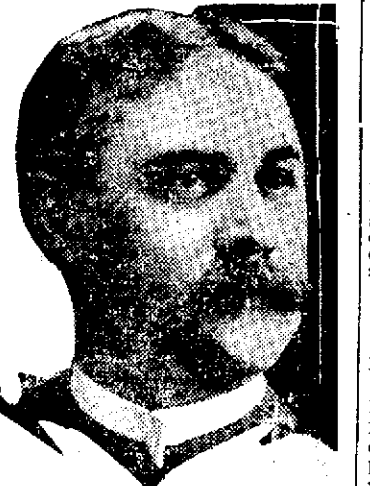

"Just now the rattle of the mower may be heard, accompanied by the odor of fresh mown fields. The plaintive note of the mourning dove comes faintly through the glittering summer atmosphere and that blessed bug-eater, the yellowhammer, is omnipresent with its resounding querk." Far away a gopher sits as still and immovable as a wooden peg. Yellowing oat fields, glistening corn, shoulder-high, and full heads of barley, drooping by their own weight, testify to Nature's bountiful provision for her creatures.

"In the blistering brick confines of the city, businessmen fume and fret for a few paltry dollars. Out in the open country the farmer sweeps the horizon made of billowy grain fields with his eye and fills his pipe in peace and it is the good old summertime. What do you think of it all?

Rock River Lower at Present Than in Previous Years—River Bank Exposed.

Rock river is lower at the present time than at the corresponding period in previous years, caused, it is said, by the draining of the marshes near Koshkonong. The mark at the main power plant of the Electric company at the upper dam is 0.4 below government mark and is impeding the work of the water wheels. This afternoon the sluice gates at the dam will be opened, which will raise the river surface to about 3.0 above the mark.

Owing to the low water the river bank near the Milwaukee street bridge has been increased and the debris left by the fire is more exposed to view. Many citizens have remarked that the scene is an eyecore to the city and the matter has been called to the attention of the city officials who are expected to remove some of the wreckage and improve the appearance of the bank. From a sanitary standpoint the bank is declared detrimental to the health of the city and the matter will be called to the attention of the health officials.

Launch owners have complained that at no time in recent years has the channel of the river been so low and stumps that in the past were not exposed now endanger boats.

Mr. Lincoln's Phrase.

It is generally understood that the phrase from the immortal "Gettysburg speech" about "Government of the people, by the people and for the people" was not original with Mr. Lincoln; that is, in the sense of having been used by him for the first time. Its use is traceable back into the past, the earliest occasion of its employment, so far as is known, being in ancient Athens, about 350 B. C.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Not Intended for Her.

The Sunday school teacher was having her class memorize a little prayer. When it was the turn of a certain shy little lad to recite he did so in a very low and faltering manner. "Could you speak a little louder, dear?" asked the teacher. "I can't hear what you say." "Well, it's a prayer isn't it?" came the unexpected if logical answer. "I wasn't speaking to you."

Cash, manager of the local exchange of the Wisconsin Telephone company, J. F. Krizek, Milwaukee attorney for the same company, P. H. Korst, superintendent of the Janesville Electric company, and "Fire Chief" H. C. Klein were present, in addition to City Attorney Dougherty and the members of the council.

Yesterday's conference was a harmonious one and no time did the agents of the Bell company, which will be most vitally affected by the proposed changes, voice objections to the administration's plan to make Milwaukee streets "poleless" thoroughfares.

The argument advanced by Attorney Krizek against condemning poles as unsightly was that the lines run for long distance and to place these underground in conduits would seriously impair the service. It was explained that between important terminals, like Chicago and Milwaukee, long distance lines were laid underground, equipped with special apparatus which it is impossible to place on rough long distance lines. Mayor Fawcett said that the city officials were only anxious that all poles be taken off Milwaukee and Main streets and suggested if they could not be placed underground that new routes for back streets be used to eliminate the evil. This plan was acceptable to the company's representatives, who asked that time be granted until the engineers could make out a proposed route.

Mayor Fawcett explained that it was the council's purpose to cut down the number of wire bearing poles in the city and that the co-operation of the companies concerned was earnestly sought after. He said that the councilmen had thought that the number of poles in use could be lessened by employing the same poles for the wires of the various companies, in case it will be found impossible to build underground conduits for the whole city area.

Chief Klein offered to wager that there was a pole in the city of Janesville for every adult citizen and declared that on one corner he could mention there were seven poles. The Wisconsin company representatives stated that it was unnecessary to have two poles together and where a company had a cluster of poles at the same intersection it was poor engineering. The complaints of residents in the wards against the "pole forest" were pointed out and where property have been numerous the city officials said, and they were anxious that steps be taken to remedy conditions at once.

In the discussion of a joint arrangement between the companies in this city who use poles to distribute their wires to consolidate their lines on a single set of poles, it was explained by the telephone company that it was dangerous to lay high tension wires (over 2,300 volts) near power or low tension wires. Carrying wires of the electric light company are high tensions until they reach transformers, where the current is reduced for service wires. From one transformer four or five blocks of service wires may be strung.

P. H. Korst stated that the Janesville Electric company has already co-operated with the Rock County Telephone company and in many cases were using the same poles for their wires wherever it was practicable. The street car company at present, eliminating two sets of poles. The two telegraph companies have a few wires strung overhead and it was declared by city officials that these could be placed underground.

Where the telephone company has conduits for its wires it is necessary to have distributing poles whereby the ground cables can be distributed to the wires of subscribers in the vicinity. Tapping a cable for one or even a group of subscribers was impossible, it was said.

After considerable discussion both P. H. Korst and Attorney Krizek agreed that the companies represented by them were at all times ready to co-operate with the city in eliminating the pole nuisance and suggested that all the companies interested be allowed to "get together" and go over the ground and see what could be done. Legislation, it was claimed, could not effect a wise solution of the problem because any ordinance that could be passed would not be able to encompass the entire situation. Mr. Krizek asked that a postponement of further action be granted by the city council until the Wisconsin chief engineer of the Wisconsin Telephone company, be conferred with and could have an opportunity of visiting Janesville and personally look over the situation.

GIRL LOSES CONTROL OF AUTO—STRUCK CYCLIST

A small touring car, which was driven by Miss Jessie Menzies, struck William Skelly, who was riding on a bicycle, and knocked the youth from his wheel to the sidewalk and smashed the bicycle, shortly after 10 o'clock Monday afternoon. Fortunately Skelly was not injured.

Miss Menzies was driving the car down Milwaukee street and at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets appeared to lose control of the steering wheel and started toward the Bower City Bank. In turning into the street again the girl ran into the car track. As there was a street car approaching, Miss Menzies jerked the steering wheel too quickly and the car ran into the pavement in front of the Jackson block, striking young Skelly. Minor damage was done to the automobile.

COUNTY TAX FIGURES THOROUGHLY JUGGED

STATE TAX COMMISSION ANNOUNCES ITS DECISION ON ROCK COUNTY APPEAL.

THREE CITIES THAT SUFFER

Janesville, Beloit and Edgerton Along With Twelve Other Districts Must Pay Increases—Beloit Township Wins.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., July 21.—Fifteen towns and cities in Rock county paid $11,543.92 less taxes last year than they should have paid, and must make it up in this year's levies. Twelve towns were over-taxed an equal amount and will find their tax bills proportionally reduced next January. The state tax commission today announced its decision on the appeal of the state tax commission today.

The following towns and cities undertaxed last year by the county board of equalization will have their taxes increased by the following amounts next year: Avon, town, $478; town of Center, $43.65; town of Harmony, $40.22; town of Janesville, $43.70; town of Madison, $45.39; town of Magnolia, $301.26; town of Milton, $434.84; town of Plymouth, $262.83; town of Turtle, $269.84; city of Beloit, $5,710.87; village of Clinton, $23.65; city of Janesville, $2,337.34; village of Madison, $10.97; village of Orfordville, $36.39.

Towns Receiving Rebates.

The following towns were over-taxed last year and will be credited with the following amounts in next year's tax bills: town of Beloit, $3,707.38; town of Bradford, $625.59; town of Center, $35.93; town of Clinton, $69.92; town of Edgerton, $615.45; town of La Prairie, $22.33; town of Newark, $2,440.36; town of Porter, $488.35; town of Rock, $63.80; town of Rockford, $3,707.38; town of Union, $578.85; city of Evansville, $216.02.

Charge Against County.

The actual expense incurred in making the reapportionment was $23.63 and the commission decided that inasmuch as the whole county is so generally affected that the charge should be made against the county. The commission also decided that the discriminations in the assessments of the different assessment districts were the result of innocent mistakes rather than the result of a willful effort to injure or discriminate in the county," concludes the decision.

Assemblyman C. D. Rosa of Beloit, brought the case on behalf of the towns of Beloit and Newark.

Hearing Last Winter.

The tax commission's decision is made following a hearing at the county house last winter at which the towns of Beloit and Plymouth made vigorous protests at the high true valuation which had been fixed against their districts by the county board of equalization. By winter the county taxes had been abnormally raised. When the testimony had been reviewed Commissioners Haskins and Adams announced that they would go over the entire matter of the Rock county apportionment at their leisure and would announce their decision. It was understood at the time that the state would stand for whatever cost the work might incur.

JANESVILLE FRIENDS KNEW MISS WILMOTT

Are Deeply Interested in Mystery Surrounding Wauwatosa Girl's Disappearance—Once Lived Here.

Janesville friends of the Wilcott family are deeply concerned in the mysterious disappearance of Miss Olive Wilcott from her home at Wauwatosa at noon last Tuesday, and whose whereabouts have since baffled Milwaukee and Chicago police.

The Wilcott family resided in this city eight or nine years ago, making their home at 347 Prospect avenue. Miss Olive was then a small girl of eleven or twelve years, attended the Adams school and will be remembered by many of her former schoolmates. The Wilcotts left here for Minneapolis removing to Wauwatosa subsequently.

According to the latest developments in the case Miss Wilcott is believed to be in the hands of corrupt doctors in Chicago, undergoing treatment for drug poisoning. John Wilcott, her father, went to Chicago last night, but could not gain admission to the house of correction until today.

Mr. Wilcott's trip followed information received by the Milwaukee police from Chicago that a girl resembling her had been found in a Chicago street under the influence of women.

"If she is Miss Wilcott, an investigation will begin immediately to find the person who drugged her," said the Rev. H. D. Perkins, one of the leaders of the church. "If my family physician assured me that she has not been addicted to drugs."

The only definite clue so far found in the search for the missing young woman is information that a girl answering her description called at a physician's office in the Majestic building, Milwaukee, last Tuesday afternoon.

The girl left the office without giving her name or address after being refused morphine, and there all trace of her ends.

Searchers Sunday were informed that a young woman had been seen wandering about near Wanderers' Rest cemetery, but a search of the vicinity failed to bring results. Members of the family say they feel sure the girl has not gone to Minneapolis.

The woods and ponds and creeks near Wauwatosa have been searched thoroughly. Many feel that the most likely place to look for her is in Milwaukee.

At the instance of Sheriff McGreal deputies Monday obtained a list of the names of persons in Milwaukee, and a thorough search of all will be made. As Miss Wilcott was an accomplished singer, the faint hope that she obtained a position in one of them was advanced.

JOHN HUNTRESS HAS CHANCE TO RECOVER

Aged Resident Burned Severely on July 11, Shows a Slight Improvement, Says Physician.

John H. Huntress, who resides at 315 East Milwaukee street, and who was severely burned on Saturday, July 11, in trying to save a horse and some articles from his burning barn, has a slight chance to recover, according to his physician, Dr. Frank W. Kyrle.

Mr. Huntress has showed a slight improvement in the past few days. His flesh, which was so badly cooked by the flames during his last attempt to save a valuable horse, which he prized highly, is healing up very slowly, but with entire satisfaction, considering the age of the sufferer. Death was feared daily for a time, and his marked improvement within the past week, is good news to his friends.

Inhabitability of Mars.

The question of the habitability of Mars is one on which astronomers differ greatly. The sole evidence in favor of the existence of intelligent beings on it is the obviously artificial nature of the so-called canals as some astronomers see them. There cannot be said to be evidence of additional canal construction on the planet, the whole question of the existence of any canal being still a matter of controversy.

Where Reform Must Begin.

The adult's habits, opinions and ideals are fixed; eternal truths may be shot at him or thrust into him, but he "holds the same opinion still." But the child's mind is plastic. The impressions it receives it will retain, and if they are economically sound, it will grow into an adult with altruistic principles holding due prominence. So we must start with the child in the home, the child in the street, the child in the school. This is where reform must begin.

Civilization.

It is the triumph of civilization that at last communities have obtained such a mastery over natural laws that they drive and control them. NOMINATIONS MAY BE DETERMINED BY NEW VOTE MEASURE

Second Choice Votes Law Faces First Trial In G. O. P. Contests Since Its Enactment

With six gubernatorial candidates now in the field, Wisconsin republicans now hope to realize a candidate who ever wins the nomination must do so by the aid of second choice votes as it is scarcely within the range of possibilities that any one of the candidates, Hutton, Hall, Dahl, Philipp, Roethe or Utman, will secure a majority of first choice votes.

This is the first time since the enactment of the second choice law that it has been necessary to invoke its operation in a state-wide primary and it is more than likely that before the vote is finally canvassed much trouble may result from failure of election officials to understand the law and count the votes correctly. Only once has the law been invoked outside of a county, and that was in the Tenth district in 1912, when James A. Frear, Julius C. Gilbertson and Charles A. general were candidates for the republican nomination for congress in the Tenth district. In that contest the vote was close between Frear and Gilbertson with Ingram a near third, and the result of the canvass of the general choice votes disclosed the fact that many of the returns were so deficient that in many cases it was impossible to know how they should be applied. And so it may be believed that when a situation arises wherein the law must be given state-wide application trouble of the most perplexing sort is likely to result.

Contests in 1912.

In the last primary elections there were two contests in the republican party, Henry Johnson defeating Henry Krumrey for the nomination for state treasurer by a vote of 47,897 to 32,125 and W. C. Owen winning the attorney general contest over Philip Lehner by a vote of 46,859 to 31,139. Governor McGovern, who was a candidate for renomination and re-election at that primary, was unopposed but his total vote of 51,412 was greater than the combined vote of either of these two contests. But when it came to the election in November Governor McGovern, still leading in the number of votes received, polled a total of 29,317.

With six candidates in the field it may be supposed that the coming republican primary vote will be somewhat larger than that of 1912. But suppose that the vote reaches 125,000—then it will be necessary that some candidate receive 62,501 votes. This at the present time would seem to be a political impossibility.

It has been reported that the bull moosers of the state are to give their support to Mr. Hutton in the primary. Should this be realized, it should allow those who voted for Colonel Roosevelt in 1912 go to the primaries to vote for the New London man, then he might turn the trick and win on the first choice, for the total Roosevelt vote in that election was 62,448. This, however, is too remote a possibility to consider seriously because the primary election never has nearly approximated the general election vote.

Senatorial Contest, Too.

Then, too, it may be that the second choice will cut some figure in the republican senatorial contest as there already are five candidates in the field, McGovern, Morris, Bancroft, Burke and Estabrook, with a possibility of two more—Isaac Stephenson and John Strueng.

And as the Mary Ann law is to be put to the test and its wisdom or unwisdom exemplified.

The candidate who can devise a scheme by which he will be favored extraordinarily by the second choice votes, or who by the circumstances of the situation is able to command a large second choice support is the candidate who will win.

In the democratic party there has not developed a situation that will call for the exercise of the second choice privilege, but it is not too late yet for new candidates to make entry.

Get A Little Extra Money Out Of Your Unused Property

A farmer who owned land through which ran a dandy little stream decided he would convert the lower forty into pasture land. He had room for stock other than his own, so he nailed up a sign reading: "Pasturage for rent. Inquire within." He was an A. 1 farmer, but you could not say he was an A. 1 printer. His farm was on a well traveled road; he got answers to his ad but he did not get enough to satisfy him.

Over on the next road lived a farmer who also had a lower forty that was watered by this same generous little creek. This man was also an A. 1 farmer. He also could print a bit. He constructed a sign, viewed it and declared in sulphurous language that it would never decorate any fence of his. The next evening's edition of his home town paper bore a little ad of his to the effect that he would take in stock to pasture. He dwelt on the shade, the creek and the splendid feeding ground that he could really provide.

His ad reached thousands; his neighbor's reached only the people who passed by, and as many of them were people who had pastures of their own he was not swamped with replies. The man who put his ad where it belonged (in the paper) could have put up the S. R. O. sign had he so desired.

Do you use the want ads?

WATER HEATER FOR POCKET

Harnessed to an Electric Fixture, It Quickly Does Its Work—Boils Water in Four Minutes.

Hitherto it has always been supposed that some kind of a stove was required to heat water, even if only a stove the size of your hand. An Ohio genius, however, has demonstrated that this is not so by devising an electric water heater. A little metal cylinder has a cord which can be fastened to an ordinary electric light socket. The current is then turned on and the cylinder is placed in the water. The receptacle containing the liquid must be brought to the heater, as the latter cannot be moved farther than the length of the cord. The heater will produce hot water in four minutes. It is useful to heat water for shaving and as a sterilizer is just what is required. At the same time it does not charge the water and may be handled without fear of contact with the current.

USE ELECTRIC CEILING FANS

Being Given Interesting Test by Mobile (Ala.) Merchants to Keep Out Harmful Flies.

Electric ceiling fans as substitutes for screen doors are being given an interesting test by several business houses in Mobile, Ala. The fans are installed over the doorways on the outside and the draft created is said to effectively prevent flies from entering, says the Popular Mechanics. The idea was first tried over the entrance of a store located next to a restaurant, the flies from which were most persistent and annoying in getting past the screen doors. Since the fan has been installed, it is claimed that not a fly passed through the entrance, although the six-foot doorway is wide open and customers are continually passing in and out.

Strengthen Filament.

When it was first put before the public, the filament of the tungsten lamp was so delicate that it would be often shattered by careless handling, and it was impossible to place them where they were subject to vibration, for the life of a lamp under such circumstances was necessarily short. The improvements made in the manufacture of filaments of this character have been very rapid, and at a recent electrical show all sorts of stunts were done with the tiny fire made for use in the lamp. Heavy pieces of furniture were suspended by one of these thread-like cords, and they were subjected to other tests of this character and equally severe. It is claimed that a wire of tungsten may now be made with from three to five times the strength of that of the best steel, and has shown a strength of 500 pounds to the square inch.

Electric Light in Lungs.

Delegates to the convention of the American Laryngological Association held at Philadelphia witnessed a remarkable surgical operation when Dr. Chevalier Jackson of Pittsburgh without the use of a knife, removed a brain paper clip that had been imbedded in a young woman's lung for eight years. He used a bronchoscope tube, inclosing a tiny electric light, a reflector and minute forceps, which was lowered down the patient's throat.

Kept Alive by Currents.

It is claimed that the doctors in Philadelphia kept a patient alive for three hours after heart action had ceased by means of electrical currents.

BARDES' TESTIMONY NOT SUFFICIENT TO HOLD MRS. CARMAN, SAYS PROSECUTOR; MUST STRENGTHEN CIRCUMSTANTIAL CHAIN

Miss Elizabeth Carman and Edward T. Bardes testifying at coroner's inquest in Bailey murder case.

That the testimony of Edward T. Bardes, who swore at the coroner's inquest in the Long Island "mystery hand" case that he saw a blonde woman go to the window of Dr. Carman's office on the evening of the Bailey murder, first shot and then walk around the house and disappear, is insufficient to convict Mrs. Carman is the belief of District Attorney Smith, who has the case in charge. One of the most interesting witnesses at the inquest was Elizabeth Carman, ten-year-old daughter of the accused woman.

NORTHWESTERN LINE MAY EXTEND LINE ON THE ASHLAND DIVISION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Antigo, Wis., July 21.—Right of way is being purchased by the Chicago & Northwestern railway for an extension from Keenepick about ten miles east of Pearson and the Wolf river according to G. J. Quigley, superintendent of the Ashland division. It is thought probably here that the line will be completed this fall.

As to the possibility of a further extension Mr. Quigley did not make a statement.

It is rumored here that the Northwestern is contemplating building from Kingston northwest to Grandon.

This would lead it through the eastern part of the Langlade county, probably connected with the Wolf river division at Van Ostrand.

The Northwestern now has a spur running three quarters of a mile east of Keenepick and the extension to Pickeral Lake and beyond will begin at its terminus. The line will tap large timber tracts owned by the Fish Lumber Company of Elcho, the Payne Lumber Company and Jacob Morson of Wausau. The Northwestern also has timber land in this section but none of it is to be utilized at the present time.

Artificial Flowers an Old Idea.

Artificial flowers were made in ancient times by the Egyptians. In Europe during the eighteenth century, when there existed such a craze for porcelain, flowers were made of this substance; while the odor of the real flowers was imitated by the use of perfumes.

DAILY BULLETIN ON CONDITION OF ROADS

"The following is a daily bulletin of state roads under process of construction. All persons traveling over the roads in this list, reported as not being completed, do so at their own risk. Parties unduly trespassing on these highways or in any way damaging newly laid macadam are subject to fine and liable for damages and will be prosecuted. Our workmen are ready to co-operate with the public in every way possible, and we ask the same in return. Full crews are on every job and the work will be hastened as much as possible, consistent with best interests of the work. Much trouble and inconvenience will be avoided on both sides if due attention is paid to the guide in the following bulletin."

CHARLES E. MOORE, County Highway Commissioner.

The road running directly between Milton and Milton Junction is closed for repairs. Also, the highway between Janesville and Milton Junction, at Milton and Harmony, respectively, are torn up. Travelers are requested to use the direct Janesville to Milton road for the present.

The state road between Milton and Indian Ford is closed at the present time, while the Janesville-Indian Ford highway is entirely completed and open to the traveling public. The Janesville-Evansville road is torn up at Porter and Union. The best overland route is to take the Magnolia road in place of the Madison thoroughfare.

In the town of Spring Valley, the Orfordville-Newark road is torn up for repairs. Also, the highway between Footville and Brodhead is undergoing repairs. The Orfordville-Brodhead road is now closed and impassable owing to a state aid bridge going in over Marsh creek. Take Madison road for points west of Orfordville.

For all travel between Janesville and Beloit, Mr. Moore urges that travelers pursue the Afton course west of Rock river. The eastern thoroughfare is in no condition for travel at Happy Hollow, where a new bridge is being constructed. Work south of Yost park has been suspended, in dry weather travel is only fair, but the road is passable to travel.

The Janesville-Milton Point road is open for travel. There are two roads that are not fully completed, yet are fit for travel. They are the Milton-Emerald Grove and Avalon-Emerald Grove highways. The Evansville-Edgerton road at Union is closed. The best road to Madison from Evansville is the Brooklyn highway, which has just been completed, together with the Evansville-Attica road.

The Clinton-Beloit road is torn up in the town of Turtle for the present. Two other roads that are not open to travel are the Emerald Grove highway at Lilburn's and the Bergen road at Clinton.

All changes will appear in this paper as soon as the various roads now under repair are completed, and other highways torn up for further repairs. Hughes and Perry begin construction of Hanover road in the town of Rock today. Take upper Footville road instead.

HOME RULE FIGHT DISRUPTS SOCIETY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, July 21.—So seriously do Britishers take their politics generally and so bitter is the present contention over the Home Rule question that even society has become affected. Many Unionists are now refusing to entertain Liberals or any members of their families. Liberal balls and other festivities frequently are boycotted by the "best people," solely regards as the "best people." Unionists have frankly said that they do not care to be seen in the company of those who are working for Home Rule.

The cleavage has become so marked that one distinguished Unionist peer and his wife were bold enough actually to decline an invitation to Windsor Castle because certain "objectionable" members of the administration were present, and this notwithstanding the fact that a royal invitation has always been considered tantamount to a command. That the King appreciated the situation and sympathized with their viewpoint was evident not only from the fact that the pair were not punished but that a few days later the peeress was invited to a lunch with her Majesty at the races. This time she accepted, and it was noticeable that none of the administrationists or their wives, who were still guests at the castle, were among those present.

Not long ago a Liberal peer and peeress were invited by a leading Unionist to his country house for a week-end, but at the last minute the invitation was withdrawn, the Unionist explaining with much candor that he had heard of a conspiracy among his Unionist guests to "send them to Coventry" should they appear.

A NURSE TAKES DOCTOR'S ADVICE

And is Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Euphemia, Ohio.—"Because of total ignorance of how to care for myself when verging into womanhood, and from taking cold when going to school, I suffered from a displacement, and each month I had severe pains and nausea which always meant a lay-off from work for two to four days from the time I was 16 years old.

"I went to Kansas to live with my sister and while there a doctor told me of the Pinkham remedy but I did not use them then as my faith in patent medicines was limited. After my sister died I came home to Ohio to live and that has been my home for the last 18 years.

"The Change of Life came when I was 47 years old and about this time I saw my physical condition plainly described in one of your advertisements. Then I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot tell you or anyone the relief it gave me in the first three months. It put me right where I need not lay off every month and during the last 18 years I have not paid out two dollars to a doctor, and have been blessed with excellent health for a woman of my age and I can thank Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it.

"Since the Change of Life is over I have been a maternity nurse and being wholly self-supporting I cannot overestimate the value of good health. I have now earned a comfortable little home just by sewing and nursing. I have recommended the Compound to many with good results, as it is excellent to take before and after childbirth."—Miss EVELYN ADELIA STEWART, Euphemia, Ohio.

WANTED: Everybody to read the Want Ads in tonight's Gazette.

ALONE IN THE WILDERNESS

By JOSEPH KNOWLES

Copyright, 1913, by Small, Maynard & Co.

That Friday night, while I was camping in my lean-to at Big Spencer stream, I indulged in my first luxury—a smoke—the first and last while I was in the woods. Up to this time I hadn't missed smoking so very much. I had too much else on my mind. I just didn't think of it.

Out of mere curiosity I scraped some squaw bark off of a bush and, using some whitewood leaves as a wrapper, rolled a couple of cigarettes. Strange to say, so far as looks went, I noticed but little difference in these cigarettes from those I had always smoked so many of in the city.

With a live brand I lit one, not because I wanted to smoke particularly, but out of mere curiosity, as I had a few idle moments to spare. I wanted to see the smoke float up. I smoked them both and that was the end of it. I never lit it again. Not that they weren't good cigarettes, but I had no desire to smoke, living in the great outdoors.

There in the wilderness I became convinced that smoking is nothing but a luxury. It is a habit and harms rather than benefits man. Its companionship isn't worth the smoking.

How could I think of smoking while I was hunting food to keep away the pangs of hunger, or fire to keep me warm? Do you suppose the luxury of smoking came into my mind while I was running around in that spruce thicket those first two rainy nights?

No, indeed! Smoking was the farthest from my thoughts.

By entering the woods I had deprived myself of every luxury. I knew it. I just forgot about that part of it as soon as I came under the shelter of the trees. I was proud to be able to deny myself, and, as a result, feel much stronger for it.

After smoking those two woodland cigarettes that Friday night, I realized what habit stood for in the world. My not having cigarettes proved no great privation. They weren't meant to be had, there in the wilderness. They didn't fit the surroundings.

I had gone into the woods to see if a man could be self-sustaining and get along without depending on civilization and his friends. Thus early I was satisfied that he could.

To the man who has smoked cigarettes incessantly for years, as I had, who is under the impression that he would experience physical harm by abruptly cutting off the stimulant, let me state that, while he will perhaps be nervous and irritable for a few days, he will gradually begin to feel better than he has for a long time and be glad that he is rid of the habit. Leaving off the smoking didn't even make me irritable or nervous. I simply forgot it.

The morning after this cigarette dissipation was Saturday. I rose early and started along the natural game trails in the direction of Bear mountain. On the way I saw a deer, whom I talked to. She wasn't frightened, although only a little way behind me. Part of the time I didn't pay any attention to her. When I stopped she would stop, and when I began to move she also moved slowly on. This continued for quite a piece.

Finally I arrived on the south side of Bear mountain, where I found a spring. A little higher up on the slope of the mountain was an ideal place for a camp. I decided to build a first class home without delay. The spot was about four miles from my first lean-to which I had constructed back in the woods near Lost pond. The other lean-to at Big Spencer stream was only the roughest kind of a shelter.

At this Bear mountain lean-to I hit upon a plan which would save me much bother at night. Up to now during the night, when the weather was cold, I had been forced to move around and replenish my fire whenever it burnt low. Now it occurred to me to build a kind of skid leading down to the fire, on which I could pile small logs of wood in such a way that when one log burnt out it would release another log on the skid.

I made the skidding skid with sticks leaning from upright, crooked sticks, and, much to my delight, the scheme worked well.

One night when I had piled the wood carelessly the whole pile took fire. But in the long run the skid was a successful device.

I had spent nearly a whole week in the forest. I was perfectly well and fairly comfortable, though I still had no clothes of any kind.

More than anything else I missed the sound of a human voice. However, my first Sunday, which would be the next day, was to bring me company. Sunday in the forest is just the same as any other day.

On the first Sunday of my experiment I did one thing which I had not done before. When I remembered to make the day's mark on my calendar stick instead of making a straight line beside the other six which marked the previous days I scratched a cross like the Roman numeral X. This cross signified that it was Sunday and the end of my first week.

As I made my way down to the spring early that morning I knew it was Sunday morning, and the thought came to me of how little churches would be needed if every one knew and understood nature. Nature is in truth a religion in herself.

At the spring I took a long drink of water, and as I lay there drinking I caught sight of my image upon the mirrorlike surface. I certainly was wild looking. I saw a naked man with disheveled hair and a scraggly growth of beard. I wondered if my mother could have seen me just then whether she would have recognized me.

Everything was very still all about me. Occasionally the cry of a bird would be heard, but that was all.

While I had been a bit depressed the night before, a good rest had made my spirits rise again.

I scooped up handfuls of the water and dashed it over my face and body. It was deliciously cool and brought a glow to my skin.

I felt strong enough to pull up a tree by the roots. I was far stronger than I was the day I entered the forest. Certainly the experiment was aiding me physically thus far. I knew this by the way I felt. If a man is all right he feels all right. When he doesn't feel just right there is some reason for it.

I went back to my lean-to, stirred up the fire and sat there thinking for awhile. I wasn't particularly hungry, so I didn't eat anything just then, although I had a plentiful supply of smoked trout and dried berries on hand.

I never had any regular time for meals. I just ate when I felt that I needed to eat.

CHAPTER V.

Rescue of the Fawn.

THE day before I had injured my foot slightly by stepping on a sharp piece of wood which protruded from a fallen tree. There were still some unused strips of cedar bark in one side of my lean-to, so I made up my mind to try my hand at a pair of moccasins. Using the heaviest of the bark I wove a sort of foot covering. As I wove I fitted them to my feet. I knew I had a better fit than thousands of civilized women who walk about the city streets in shoes with high heels and pointed ends which squeeze their toes all out of shape.

For ties I wove in strands of bark, which I tied over my instep. They were clumsy to walk in at first, but I soon got used to them, and they were a protection for my feet. I made several pairs.

While I was finishing off my first moccasins I heard a rustle in the bushes down by the spring. I peered through the trees and saw a red deer going down to drink. I made a slight motion, and immediately her head shot up. She had seen me.

I watched her a moment, and then, as if not interested, I went on with my work. After a short time I lifted my head and looked again toward the spring. She was still gazing straight at me, standing transfixed.

Harder Task to Do Present Duty. Pleasant it is to entertain the picture of ourselves in some future scene, planning wisely, feeling nobly, and executing with the holy triumph of the will; but it is a different thing, not in the green avenues of the future, but in the hot dust of the present moment, to do the duty that waits and waits us.—James Martineau.

A MUNICIPAL REPORT

By O. HENRY

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Co.

O. HENRY

Twenty-four famous authors were asked recently to name the best short story in the English language. Montague Glass, Gouverneur Morris and Richard Harding Davis all declare that O. Henry's "A Municipal Report" is one of the world's greatest short stories.

MONTAGUE GLASS

When the milk and wine had been brought the doctor soon revived Azalea Adair. She sat up and talked of the beauty of the autumn leaves that were then in season and their height of color. She referred lightly to her fainting seizure as the outcome of an old palpitation of the heart. Impy fanned her as she lay on the sofa. The doctor was due elsewhere, and I followed him to the door. I told him that it was within my power and intentions to make a reasonable advance of money to Azalea Adair on future contributions to the magazine, and he seemed pleased.

"By the way," he said, "perhaps you would like to know that you have had royalty for a coachman. Old Caesar's grandfather was a king in Kongo. Caesar himself has royal ways, as you may have observed."

As the doctor was moving off I heard Uncle Caesar's voice inside. "Did he get bote of dem $2 from you, Mis' Zulea?"

"Yes, Caesar," I heard Azalea Adair answer weakly. And then I went in and concluded business negotiations with our contributor. I assumed the responsibility of advancing $50, putting it as a necessary formality in binding our bargain. And then Uncle Caesar drove me back to the hotel.

Here ends all of the story as far as I can testify as a witness. The rest must be only bare statements of facts. At about 8 o'clock I went out for a stroll. Uncle Caesar was at his corner. He threw open the door of his carriage, flourished his duster and began his depressing formula: "Step right in, sub. Fifty cents to anywhere in the city. Hack's puffery clean, sub. Jus' got back from a fumery!"

And then he recognized me. I think his eyesight was getting bad. His coat had taken on a few more faded shades of color, the twine strings were more frayed and ragged, the last remaining button—the button of yellow horn—was gone. A motley descendant of kings was Uncle Caesar!

About two hours later I saw an excited crowd besieging the front of a drug store. In a desert where nothing happens this was manna, so I edged my way inside. On an extemporized couch of empty boxes and chairs was stretched the mortal corporeality of Major Wentworth Caswell. A doctor was testing him for the immortal ingredient. His decision was that it was conspicuous by its absence.

The erstwhile major had been found dead on a dark street and brought by curious and envious citizens to the drug store. The late human being had been engaged in terrific battle—the details showed that. Loner and reprobate though he had been, he had been also a warrior. But he had lost. His hands were yet clenched so tightly that his fingers would not be opened. The gentle citizens who had known him stood about and searched their vocabularies to find some good words, if it were possible, to speak of him. One kind looking man said after much thought, "When Cas was about fourteen he was one of the best spellers in school."

While I stood there the fingers of the right hand of "the man that was," which hung down the side of a white pine box, relaxed and dropped something at my feet. I covered it with one foot quietly and a little later on I picked it up and pocketed it. I reasoned that in his last struggle his hand must have seized that object unwittingly and held it in a death grip.

At the hotel that night the main topic of conversation, with the possible exceptions of politics and prohibition, was the demise of Major Caswell. I heard one man say to a group of listeners:

"In my opinion, gentlemen, Caswell was murdered by some of these no-account niggers for his money. He had $50 this afternoon, which he showed to several gentlemen in the hotel. When he was found the money was not on his person."

I left the city the next morning at 9, and as the train was crossing the bridge over the Cumberland river I took out of my pocket a yellow horn overcoat button the size of a fifty cent piece, with frayed ends of coarse twine hanging from it, and cast it out of the window into the slow, muddy waters below.

I wonder what's doing in Buffalo!

Dinner Stories

A rich American woman visited a Japanese art shop in Paris. It was a dull, dark afternoon and little light penetrated the dusky store. She looked at the bronzes, jewels, drawings, and other things, and finally pointing toward a dusky corner she said to the polite young salesman: "How much is that Japanese idol over there worth?"

The salesman bowed courteously and replied: "About $500,000, madam. It is the proprietor."

Some years ago there were in Paris two papers, the Razor and the Scorpion, which were always attacking each other.

Every week people bought the Razor to read how it cut at the Scorpion, and then purchased the Scorpion to learn how it stung the Razor. A certain philanthropist, feeling pained to see such animosity displayed, invited the two editors to dine, in the hope that over good fare he could make peace between them. At the appointed time one lean, melancholy man presented himself and was ushered in. After an interval, as no other guest appeared, the host demanded: "May I ask, are you the editor of the Razor or the Scorpion?"

"Both!" said the sad-eyed man.

Therefore Smile.

Surely happiness is reflective, like the light of heaven; and every countenance, bright with smiles and glowing with innocent enjoyment, is a mirror, transmitting to others the rays of a supreme and ever-shining benevolence.—Irving.

Reforming Railway Evils.
The interstate commerce commission is busy trying to reform railroad evils. It is intended to make directors attend the meetings and to end all secret meetings. Bookkeeping and financial methods are also to be reformed, but these things interest the passengers very little. Following are a few rules which would remedy some real evils on the railroads:

No passenger shall be allowed to go to sleep with his foot sticking out in the aisle.

Snoring shall be strictly prohibited on all sleeping cars as well as in the day coaches.

Any brakeman who leaves a door open more than five minutes while calling the name of the next station shall forfeit his position with the railroad and be subject to a term of imprisonment not exceeding five years.

Any lady taking a parrot on the train shall be put off at the first station and the money she paid for her ticket shall be refunded.

Ham sandwiches placed on sale in railroad eating houses shall not be more than six months old. The date upon which the sandwich was made shall be stamped upon the wrapper in red ink.

Any traveling man who sets a valise down in the aisle for passengers to fall over shall be placed in the nearest county jail for safe keeping.

Barlor car porters must make at least three passes with their whisks in order to collect a quarter from the passenger. In order to collect fifty cents the porter must hit the passenger at least six times with the broom.

FIFTY COUNTIES TO EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Milwaukee Business Men Will Provide New Building for Displays. —Large Structure.

Over fifty counties will send county exhibits to the state fair here on Sept. 14 to 18, and these exhibits will be housed in a brand new building, the gift of business men of Milwaukee.

Dr. G. A. Kletzsch, one of the Milwaukee members of the Wisconsin State Board of Agriculture, is the sponsor for the new structure.

The building will be seventy-six feet wide and two hundred feet long, and one story high. Two aisles twelve feet wide will run through the building from entrance to entrance, and there will be exhibits on both sides of each aisle. Eight doors at each end will admit people to the building. The lighting and ventilation will be ideal. No concessions will be allowed in this building.

The old county building will be used to house other agricultural exhibits.

Northern Wisconsin will be especially strong at this year's fair, and this is notably true of the department of county exhibits. This section of the state will send at least 10,000 patrons to the fair. Arrangements for one delegation of 500, which will come from Antigo by special train, has been made at three hotels already.

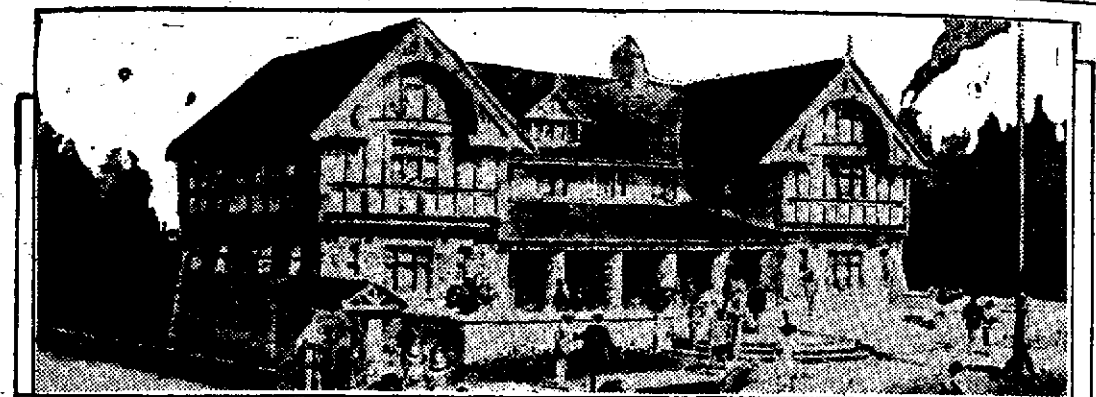

Last year thirty-two counties sent exhibits, but this year's county department will show eighteen more.

Preparations now being made by northern Wisconsin counties warrant the statement that many premiums that have gone to southern and central Wisconsin in past years may go to the north this year.

Church, State and Poor.
A book on "The Church, the State and the Poor" has been written by an English vicar. The book is comprehensive, tracing the subject of preferential days. The author regrets that during the growth of collectivism, under which he classifies what is called "Christian socialism," the church has trusted too much to the state to better the conditions among the poor.

Now there is a revival of interest in the welfare of the poor on the part of the church. The writer's contention is that a firm belief in the Christian creed is the only inspiration and guide to any effort to solve "the social problem."

MILLIONS ARE BEING SPENT ON STATE BUILDINGS AT PANAMA EXPOSITION; NEVER BEFORE HAVE APPROPRIATIONS BEEN SO BIG

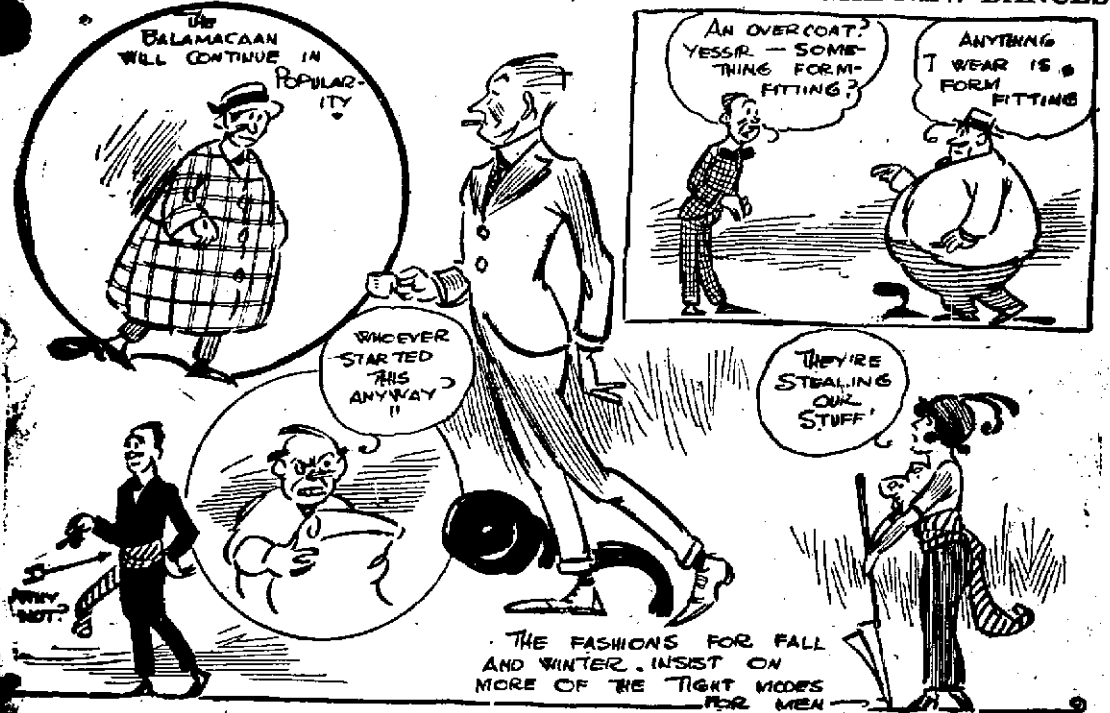

State buildings at Panama exposition. Top to bottom: Indiana, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

States and territories of the United States are to be represented at the Panama-Pacific exposition on a far greater scale than they have been at any former exposition. Millions of dollars have already been appropriated. New York city and state alone voting $1,100,000.

Among the most beautiful state buildings will be those of Indiana, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. The most expensive state building of all will be that of California, costing $2,000,000. It will be the largest state building ever built for any exposition.

FALL AND WINTER STYLES FOR MEN WILL DEMAND THE SLENDER FIGURE; TAILORS PLACE ALL THE BLAME ON THE NEW DANCES

At the convention of the National Association of Clothiers and Designers recently held at Atlantic City it was agreed that next season's male garb should be tighter than ever. This has naturally aroused some little sensation. The tailors declare that the tango and other new dances are the cause.
